ISLAND, a bench system by Ronan & Erwan Bouroullec
invites passersby to sit, perch or lounge.

Its understated design
creates a central focal point for high-traffic
communal environments.

A versatile, space-optimising bench system with multiple configurations,

giving in-between
areas a collaborative,
functional use.

A natural evolution of the successful Established & Sons' GRID System, ISLAND addresses how the way we work continues to change, with breakout areas for informal, flexible use becoming increasingly prevalent.

As traditional workplaces evolve, the bench seating system offers a bespoke streamlined solution that transitions a void space into a practical communal area.

Designer Erwan Bouroullec says, “The concept was designed to encourage relaxed social interactions, impromptu meetings, or a pause between journeys. A place to linger and recharge, bringing about productivity or rest.”

RONAN & ERWAN BOUROLLEC

Maximising layout while staying sympathetic to the surrounding space, ISLAND takes advantage of a non-productive area. Without impeding line of sight, the freestanding, unobtrusive bench helps to define movement and natural flow through a room.

- 14 The structure is made up of long modular units allowing infinite options and a variety of depths, supported by a steel frame and panels of CLT (Cross-Laminated Timber) and optional upholstered seating. Material is high-quality and sustainable.

Add-on external or internal partitions act as back rests and various sized tables and integrated charging modules provide points of engagement.

Additional accessories include multiple sized tables and cushions. Easy to dismantle and rebuild when cleaning, the units are hygienic and ideal for high-traffic public areas.
